

I live in Atlanta, but I had never been to any of the companies and places we visited. It was amazing!
– Jewel Wicker, student

The Terry Business Academy is a selective, pre-collegiate summer program at the University of Georgia Terry College of Business.

Through generous support provided by Deloitte, the cost of the program is underwritten and offered free of charge to all participating students (valued over $500).

If you are a rising junior or senior in high school with an interest in business and entrepreneurship, this intensive one-week program will expose you to many aspects of business that you can experience in an exciting environment with students who share your curiosity and drive.

What's included:

- College-level academic activities
- Game night, cookouts, and a class-organized social
- Site visits to corporate headquarters and innovative companies
- Exploration of business majors and potential career paths
- Focused instruction on presentations skills and marketing plans
- Golf lessons at the top-rated UGA golf course
- In the midst of UGA's picturesque campus and the vibrancy of downtown Athens
