

Alice H. Kinman

Department of Economics
Terry College of Business
University of Georgia
Athens, GA 30602

Phone: 706-542-3494
Email: akinman@uga.edu

Education

University of Georgia, Ph.D., English	December 1996
Dissertation: "Becoming a Citizen in the Land of Letters: Edith Wharton's Early Work, 1891-1905"
Converse College, B.A., English (with Honors)	May 1983

Teaching and Administrative Positions

Lecture, Department of Economics, Terry College of Business, UGA	2011-present
Instructor, Department of Economics, Terry College of Business, UGA	2010-2011
Academic Advisor, Franklin College of Arts and Sciences, UGA	2006-2011
Instructor, Department of English, Franklin College of Arts & Sciences, UGA	2000-2004
Administrative Coordinator, Department of English, UGA	2001-2003
Fulbright Lecturer, Jagiellonian University (Krakow, Poland)	1999-2000
Visiting Assistant Professor, University of West Georgia	1997-1999

Selected Papers and Publications

"Academically Drifting?: Notes from a B-School Writing Instructor" (accepted), International Writing Across the Curriculum Conference, Savannah, GA, 2012

"Edith Wharton and the Future of Fiction" (Edith Wharton Review, Fall 2002)

"The Making of a Professional: Edith Wharton's The Decoration of Houses" (South Atlantic Review, Winter 2000)

"House Beautiful: Oscar Wilde and American Interior Decoration," (Conference Proceedings: The Importance of Being Oscar, Spring 2000)

"A Woman's Heart: The Construction of Gender in Little Women and The Story of Avis," Gender Forum, The University of Wroclaw, Wroclaw, Poland, April 2000 (invited)

"Possessing Herself: Explorations of Selfhood in Nineteenth-Century Literature by American Women," paper delivered to Literature Faculty, Jagiellonian University, February 2000 (invited)

"Self-Reliance in the Domestic Sphere: Ruth Hall as Romantic Hero," University of South Carolina Comparative Literature Conference: Formations of the Self, April 1999

Reading Lily Bart: The Culture of Reading in The House of Mirth," University of Georgia Women's Studies Brown Bag Lunch Series, 1997

Awards and Grants

Franklin College Outstanding Professional Advisor, 2011

Fulbright Scholar, 1999-2000

Lanier Dissertation Fellow, 1993

Outstanding Teaching Assistant, 1993

University Service

Member (ex officio), Economics Department Undergraduate Program Committee, Fall 2011-present

Other Work Experience and Service

Athens -Clarke County Commissioner

2005-present

Member, Citizen Oversight Committee, Clarke County School District Educational SPLOST

Member, Northeast Georgia Transportation Roundtable

References

Available on request