Because the Terry College of Business brand is a sub-brand of the University of Georgia, the two share a number of characteristics (such as color and typography). But due to the college’s specific purpose and target audience, our brand should carry a distinctive voice and a discernible visual style of its own. All communications for the brand should strengthen the Terry story, while inspiring our audiences to take action in support of our brand priorities.

Note that all instances of “brand” in the following pages refer to the Terry College of Business brand, and instances of “master brand” refer to the University of Georgia brand.
The Terry College of Business’ Office of Marketing and Communications Department leads the planning, creation and implementation of the university’s marketing, publications, and media and public relations initiatives. It is also responsible for the college’s brand management goals, standards and processes. If you have questions you can’t find answers to within this guide, or if you need brand assets, please contact the Office of Marketing and Communications.

COLOR
COLOR OVERVIEW

Our color palette helps people identify us at a glance, and the way we use color sets the mood for each of our pieces, bringing an energy and vibrancy to our communications.

The primary brand palette for Terry College of Business matches our main university colors.

The secondary brand palette uses selected colors from three groups: vibrants, neutrals, and darks.

The following pages break down each row into individual colors and show ways to create unique palettes by using the brand colors in combination.

When using color builds, always use the color values listed here. They have been adjusted for the best reproduction on screen and in print and will not match Pantone Color Bridge breakdowns. Pre-made swatches can be downloaded from brand.georgia.edu.

VIBRANTS

Our vibrant palette is made of Glory Glory and Lake Herrick, hues that can bring vigor and warmth to designs. Use these colors sparingly: they should never be used for body text or headlines.

Glory Glory is used to distinguish the Terry College of Business from the other colleges within the University of Georgia.

Note that for projected presentations, avoid using Glory Glory. And never pair it with Bulldog Red for visibility considerations.

USING COLOR

It is important to maintain a sense of hierarchy, balance and harmony when using the Terry College of Business color palette. Our brand color palette builds off the master brand’s and features Glory Glory to distinguish us from other colleges.

The following pages draw on the entire palette to show how color combinations can be used successfully. Each is different but maintains character and emotion. Use the vertical banding as a guide to the ratios of each color. This isn’t meant to be a precise mathematical system, but is intended to give an idea of relative use.

It is also important to note that the primary colors should play a role in each palette you create, even if it is a minimal one.

COLOR SPECTRUM

The chart shown here is a guide for the mood each color conveys on a communications piece. Colors can range from subtle to bold, and formal to casual. On the palettes on the following pages, there is a miniature version of this guide. Use it as a starting point to choose a set of colors that projects the right mood for the piece.
TYPOGRAPHY
When it is used thoughtfully, typography becomes a powerful tool to add visual meaning to what is communicated.

FONT USAGE

Leading and tracking

Using type thoughtfully is crucial to making our designs look professional. Follow these tips to make sure our typography is consistent.

Note: Start with leading that is one to two points higher than the point size of the text. This won't always be right, but leading can easily be adjusted from there.

LEADING
Line spacing, called leading, is critical to setting professional-looking type that's easy to read. Leading should be set tight, but not too tight. With our typefaces, text generally looks best with leading set slightly looser than the default.

Leading that’s too loose leaves too much pause between lines.

15 pt. type / 23 pt. leading

Tracking that’s too loose leaves too much space between letters.

+60 tracking

When leading is correct, the reader won’t even notice.

FONT USAGE

Trade Gothic

When using Trade Gothic, refer to these font usage tips.

TRACKING
When tracking text set in Trade Gothic, generally set optical tracking between 20 and 50 points, or use your best judgment.

WHEN TRACKING IS CORRECT, THE READER WILL NOT EVEN NOTICE.

+30 tracking

MANUAL TRACKING
Sometimes optical tracking is not better than your own eye. Start with the default optical tracking, then manually track letters if something looks off. Always do this when Trade Gothic is used to set headlines.

UNDERLINE
When underlining Trade Gothic, use the Underline tool in the drop-down Character menu. Then use the Underline Options to adjust the weight and offset of the underline. Always edit the default setting.

HOW TO UNDERLINE FOR TRADE GOTHIC.

Weight 1.2 pt. / Offset 6 pt.

HOW TO UNDERLINE FOR TRADE GOTHIC.

Weight 1 pt. / Offset 4 pt.
SAMPLE SETTING

Use the specifications shown here as a starting point when setting type in a new layout. These proportions are designed for print, but they apply to digital and environmental applications as well. Since our two typefaces pair so well, keep in mind that you can substitute one for the other to create layouts that feel more formal or more casual.

USING LINES WITH TYPOGRAPHY

Building from the master brand’s use of underlines, the dynamic underlines shown here are specific to the Terry College of Business brand.

Use these treatments to strengthen headlines and emphasize an idea of progress, forward thinking or collaboration.

See page 53 for additional guidance about line usage.
PHOTOGRAPHY
OUR PHOTOGRAPHY

Photography is a key tool for showcasing our diverse and dynamic community. Our images capture the Terry College of Business spirit and connect with people in ways that words can’t. What we say describes what we’re doing to challenge convention and shape the future. But it is our photography that shows it.
PHOTO STYLE

Our photography style is bright, warm and intimate, with images that use natural light whenever possible. Light is also an active element in our photography, sometimes to the point of slight overexposure. To avoid unnatural angles, never rotate the camera to an angle other than 90 degrees.

Our photography can be broken down into three subject categories: portraiture, collaboration, and Terry campus and Georgia hallmarks.

PORTRAITURE

COLLABORATION

TERRY CAMPUS AND GEORGIA HALLMARKS
PORTRAITURE

Portrait photos are the foundation of our image library. These images emphasize the importance of student success.

Portraits can range from formal headshots to lighthearted scenes in working environments.

Shots taken straight on can be used to evoke more a serious tone. Avoid stiff poses with crossed arms or hands on hips.

Side profiles are more inviting and intimate. These portraits should always be three-fourths view, facing to the right, hinting at optimism and progress. When shooting or cropping, it’s important to consider the context of the subject’s environment.
COLLABORATION

In collaborative work environments, both inside and outside the classroom, it’s important to always highlight an individual within a group setting.

Balance these group shots with individuals who are engaged in their activity or area of study. Capture students as they collaborate, learn and develop their skills, and become leaders. And remember, it is important to show a diverse mix of students in an accepting and supportive environment.

*These images are included for inspiration only. They are not owned by the Terry College of Business or the University of Georgia.
TERRY CAMPUS AND GEORGIA HALLMARKS

The campus category includes both the Terry College of Business’ buildings and the University of Georgia’s hallmarks, such as the Chapel Bell and the Arch.

Images like these are incredibly important in distinguishing Terry from other universities and developing a close relationship with all our audiences.

Shots of the university’s hallmarks can prove extremely useful when talking about the University of Georgia’s history, heritage and traditions, as well as when communicating with alumni.

Portraits can be placed in these three container shapes and treated as another graphic element. Reference these examples when framing portraits. These inset frames are intended primarily but not exclusively for use with portraits of individuals.

GRAPHIC ELEMENTS
OUR GRAPHIC ELEMENTS

The Terry College of Business brand has a variety of graphic tools that create a unique look and make us recognizable. For the brand, these elements can be dialed up or down individually to add visual interest and enhance our storytelling.
THE ELEMENTS

The brand has a number of graphic tools that distinguish us visually from our peers. When they’re used consistently, these elements create continuity within our family of materials, across a variety of media.

1

LINES

Lines are a great way to establish hierarchy, to guide navigation within a layout, to emphasize a word or phrase, and to organize content.

2

BORDERS

Our border element frames important information or photography. It adds sophistication and elegance to any piece.

3

ICONS

Icons are paired with photography, incorporated in informational diagrams, and used as stand-alone elements to support ideas.
LINES

Lines are a very elementary graphic treatment, but by applying them thoughtfully, we can elevate a single design or a family of communications. An easy way to do this is to establish a common line weight throughout an entire piece of collateral.

SOLID LINE

- 0.5 POINT MINIMUM LINE WIDTH
- 2.0 POINTS MAXIMUM LINE WIDTH

APPLICATIONS

Most applications in Adobe Creative Suite have a contextual menu for Strokes that should be used to customize lines. The menu to the right shows the basic controls, such as Weight, Cap, Join, Alignment and Type.

Weight is variable, depending on the size and scale of the piece. The Cap should always be set to Butt Cap, and the Join should always be set to Miter Join. Alignment can vary based on the situation, but the only stroke allowed is Solid — highlighted on the menu at right.

See page 40 for line usage with typography.
BORDERS

Borders are a simple but sophisticated graphic treatment that can add elegance to any piece. They are used to frame photography or important information.

The styles and uses of borders shown here distinguish the Terry College of Business from the University of Georgia master brand.

For more embellishment on print materials, Bulldog Red and Glory Glory can be used together on borders, as shown.

A simple border frame can be used for a softer emphasis with headlines or call-outs.

BORDER FRAMING PHOTOGRAPHY

ICONS

Here is a sampling of icons that help with communication pieces. They should only be used with relevant content.

Icons can be set in circle containers and treated like badges. Never use squares or other shapes as containers for icons.

When creating or selecting icons, consider the amount of detail, use of geometric forms, solid shapes opposed to outlines, and the legibility found in these examples.

USING ICONS WITH LINES

Icons can be paired with lines to build connections or help with reader navigation.
